World Labyrinth Day was celebrated on Saturday at the Armenian Heritage Park on the Greenway.

At this annual occasion, people gather at the Armenian Heritage Park to celebrate and recognize the immigrant experience. Opening remarks were given by Ted Touloukain, AIA, Board Chair, Boston Society of Architects Foundation and Principal of Touloukian & Touloukian. This was followed by readings from the Eliot School's fourth graders. The students, led by Coordinator of Culture and School Climate Morgan Atkins, read “I AM” poems, each taking on the persona of an immigrant arriving in a new country.

There was an introduction to walking the labyrinth, and then all were invited to “walk as one in peace and harmony.” This celebration spreads across the world as individuals in over 35 countries join to walk the labyrinth in their town or city at the same time.
See photos from the event below, courtesy of Gerri Palladino.

- Ted Touloukian.
- Eliot School 4th graders read immigration poems. L-R: Nadia, Jerry, Brennan, Julianne, Julia and Madelyn
- Barbara Tellalian speaks with the Eliot students.
- Morgan Atkins and the Eliot students.
- The Fischioni family from Arizona.
- The Owusu Family from Newton.
Tea & desserts hosted by Eastern Lamejun Bakers & MEM Tea Imports

Photos courtesy of Gerri Palladino.